

View of the studio during the graduation project

Hannah Zenger

Stuttgart

MONIKA GASS

“Porcelain”

Stuttgart artist Hannah Zenger is interested in making things visible, in processes, research, materiality. Working with porcelain and other ceramic materials is sense-orientated, working with the elements earth, fire, water and air, she is focused, requires time and sensibility. Hannah Zenger’s works bear this idea within themselves and carry it outwards – since 2017 in her own studio at the interface between art and design.

Hannah Zenger

Born in Böblingen, southwest Germany in 1988. 2009 – 2015 studied architecture at Stuttgart University and the Stuttgart State Academy of Art and Design. 2015 – 2018 studied Fine Art at the Stuttgart State Academy of Art and Design, specialising in sculpture and ceramics under Prof. Udo Koch, and Prof. Jong-Hyun Park. Since 2014 exhibitions in galleries and museums, participation in art fairs, competitions and awards. Since 2015, teaching post in the department of performing and visual art at the University of Stuttgart. Since 2017 HANNAHZENGER Porzellan Studio, Vogelsangstraße 57, 70197 Stuttgart, Germany www.hannahzenger.de

Torus, Trochilus, 2018, plaster. Graduation project in fine art. Positive and negative casts of moulds from the Königliche Porzellan-Manufaktur Berlin

Powder Series, 2017, porcelain, powdered stone from various locations in the world

